Biography

National Evangelist Leisa Wynn Johnson is a devoted vessel used by God to impact the lives of His people. She accepted her call to ministry as a young adult while serving under the pastoral leadership of her father, the late Reverend W. J. Wynn, and her mother, Rochelle Wynn.

She is the wife of Superintendent Harold Johnson II and serves faithfully in ministry as Women's Department President and Community Program Administrator. Known as a working First Lady, she serves wherever there is a need.

As a national evangelist, she is passionate about outreach and connecting with people from all walks of life, with a special emphasis on ministering to women who have experienced trauma and life challenges.

Through her testimony and ministry, she has helped rebuild, encourage, and mentor countless women toward healing and restoration.
